EXHORTATION

Speak the Truth.
 Practice Virtue.
 Neglect not study (of the Vedas).
 One should not be negligent of truth.
 One should not be negligent of virtue.
 One should not be negligent of welfare.
 One should not be negligent of prosperity.
 One should not be negligent of study and teaching.
 Be one to whom a mother is as a God.
 Be one to whom a father is as a God.
 Be one to whom a teacher is as a God.
 Be one to whom a guest is as a God.
 Be one to whom the nation is a God.
 Those acts which are irreproachable should be practised, and no others.
 Those things which among us are good deeds should be revered by you, and no others.
 One should give with faith. One should not give without faith.
 One should give with plenty. One should give with modesty.
 One should give with fear. One should give with sympathy.
 Now, if you should have doubt concerning an act, or doubt concerning conduct, if there should be Brahmanas competent to judge, apt, devoted, not harsh, lovers of virtue—as they may behave themselves in such a case, so should you behave yourself in such a case.
 This is the teaching.
 This is the admonition.
 This is the mystic doctrine of the Veda.
 This is the instruction.
 Thus should one worship.
 Thus, indeed, should one worship.
 O, Snatakas, bear this well in mind and be one in good conduct and behaviour.

Recipients of Degrees will say :

I do promise ! I do promise ! I do promise !
